“Meet the Economist Enforcers: A Dialogue with Damien Neven of the EU and Dennis Carlton until recently at DOJ”

In this teleconference Dennis Carlton and Damien Neven will make short presentations on what they see as the key economic issues in competition enforcement in the U.S. and EU followed by Q&A from the moderators and general discussion.

There will be an opportunity at the end of the program to ask our panelists questions. In addition, if you would like to submit a question in advance to ask one of our panelists, please e-mail it to Connie Carrol at ccarrol@lecg.com.

Dennis W. Carlton is a Senior Managing Director at Compass Lexecon, a leading economic consulting firm. Mr. Carlton has served as an expert in numerous domestic and foreign cases involving a wide array of industries.

He is also a Professor of Economics at the Graduate School of Business at the University of Chicago where he teaches in the Business School, Law School and Economics Department. He has published more than 80 articles and two books, including one of the leading textbooks in industrial organization. He is the co-editor of the Journal of Law and Economics and of Competition Policy International, and serves on the advisory board of the Journal of Competition Law and Economics. Mr. Carlton recently served as the Deputy Assistant Attorney General in the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice. He also served as the sole economist on the recent Antitrust Modernization Commission, a Congressional commission that published its findings in 2007. He lectures frequently on antitrust issues.

He earned his PhD in Economics in 1975 from MIT, his MS in Operations Research from MIT in 1974, and his AB (summa cum laude) in 1972 from Harvard College, where he majored in Applied Mathematics and Economics and was a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Damien Neven is Professor and currently Chief Competition Economist at the Competition Directorate of the European Commission and Professor at the Graduate Institute of International Studies in Geneva (on leave). He has obtained a Doctorate in Economics from Nuffield College (Oxford) and has previously taught at INSEAD, the University of Brussels, the College of Europe and the University of Lausanne. His work has focused on the economics of industry. He has published numerous articles and books in this area. His research focuses on competition economics and enforcement.
