

Theodore L. Banks (Ted) is Chief Counsel and Senior Director of Global Compliance Policy at Kraft Foods in Northfield, Illinois. Over his 30-year legal career, Ted has been responsible for antitrust and corporate legal matters, in addition to his current compliance responsibilities. He is the author of several legal treatises, including Distribution Law: Antitrust Principles and Practice, published by Aspen, now in its second edition, and was one of the pioneers in developing ways that attorneys can use computers in their practices.

Throughout his career, Ted also has directed many substantial corporate transactions and litigated cases. He supervised the $19 billion acquisition of Nabisco by Kraft, and the $8.7 billion IPO of Kraft Foods Inc.

Ted has written numerous articles on antitrust and legal management topics, and co-edited the Corporate Legal Compliance Handbook, also published by Aspen. He is a frequent speaker at continuing legal education programs, where he strives not to bore the attendees too much.
