Areas of Expertise

Michael Egge is a partner in Latham & Watkins Washington office and Co-Chair of the Global Antitrust and Competition Practice Group. He focuses his practice on antitrust matters before the DOJ and FTC with a strong emphasis on cartel and merger matters. Mike has extensive experience navigating antitrust sensitive deals through the regulatory review process and conducting internal investigations in global and local cartel matters. He has represented clients in presenting leniency applications and defending against follow-on damage litigation. Mike also has substantial experience practicing competition law from inside a corporation -- he took a four-year break from his Washington antitrust practice to serve as Competition Counsel at The Coca-Cola Company from 1998-2002 and in that role represented client interests in merger and investigation matters on the ground in more than 20 different jurisdictions. Since returning to Washington, Mike has devoted a substantial amount of his time handling international and multi-jurisdictional antitrust matters for clients with cross-border operations.
