About ABA International...

The American Bar Association Section of International Law (ABA International) is the gateway to international and transnational practice for the more than 400,000 members of the American Bar Association. We are the primary network for ABA members who practice internationally, and we are a leader in advocacy for international legal policy and the rule of law. We have over 15,000 members, 50% of whom are in private practice, 10% are in-house counsel, and nearly 20% live outside of the United States in more than 90 countries. ABA International has long been home to leading experts in international law and serves as an indispensable network for international practitioners. ABA International provides its members with a wide range of resources, from seasonal meetings such as the Annual, Spring, and Fall Meetings, to CLE teleconferences and cutting-edge publications.

About the 2007 Fall Meeting...

The 2007 Fall Meeting is a “Must-Attend” meeting for international lawyers. More than 1,000 international practitioners are expected to participate in the 2007 Fall Meeting, and it is hoped that the 2007 Fall Meeting will be the highest-attended event in ABA International’s history. Attendees will be able to take advantage of a unique opportunity to network, and earn a full year’s worth of CLE credits from the slate of more than 60 cutting-edge CLE programs arranged in several program tracks.
