

Lynn Lavery Elsenhans
Chairman and CEO
Sunoco, Inc.

Lynn Lavery Elsenhans graduated from Rice University with a BA in Mathematical Science in 1978 and received an MBA from Harvard in 1980 before joining Shell Oil Company. She had a number of assignments in Oil Products and Chemical Products with Shell in the areas of manufacturing, marketing and planning, including overseas assignments in Singapore and London. Just before joining Sunoco she was Executive Vice President Global Manufacturing for Royal Dutch Shell.

She was named Chief Executive Officer and President Sunoco, Inc., August 8, 2008. Lynn became Chairman of the Sunoco board of directors January 1, 2009 and is also the Chairman of Sunoco Partners, LLC, the general partner for Sunoco Logistics Partners L.P.

Lynn is on the Board of Trustees for Rice University and on the Council of Overseers for the Jones Graduate School of Management at Rice. She is a Trustee for First Tee, a youth initiative that teaches life skills through golf. Lynn is a director of International Paper Company and the Texas Medical Center. She is married to John Elsenhans and lives in Philadelphia.